Subject: RE: Assistance needed on homes contaminated with oil
Date: Friday, August 19, 2016 11:56:24 AM

Thanks for the email request.

The citizen can contact the Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals as the State Health Authority for follow up questions regarding the safety of returning to home after oil clean-up activities. Your point of contact is Kathleen Aubin, Office of Public Health, Section of Environmental Epidemiology and Toxicology: 504-568-8144.

For any immediate or direct exposure questions to hazardous materials, chemicals or oil, citizens can call the Louisiana Poison Control Center: 1-800-222-1222.

I should be able to get you copies of FAQ sheets we used at previous flooding events today. Please stand by...

Patrick - EPA is currently responding to an oil spill associated with the Flooding in Denham Springs, LA. The RP is an oil distribution company that handles gasoline and other fuel oils as well as containerized lube oils. The spill impacted several homes in the surroundings residential area. A few of these appear to have oil inside and the residents are concerned about whether it will be safe to return or can be cleaned up properly. You mentioned Fact Sheets or other documents from previous similar incidents. Also, any other Health Officials you can engage would be appreciated!

Respectfully,

Bryant Smalley
